

DOIM, AG undergo commercial activities review

Web site, e-mail address, phone line established to keep employees informed

The Presidio of Monterey has two base operation functions going through a Commercial Activities Review: the Adjutant General Office and the Directorate of Information Management. Higher headquarters mandated these reviews.

These functions will compete with private industry to determine whether an in-house government operation, performed by federal employees, is less cost effective than a private enterprise commercial contractor. A decision is expected by 2001.

"It's a process that is very time consuming because of the documentation involved," said Santoro Salerno, Presidio of Monterey and Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center Commercial Activities program manager. "It is important to have the government workforce involved in the study to evaluate how we can streamline current operations and be cost competitive."

The CA program has been in existence since the 1950s. Presently, U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command is concluding similar TRADOC-wide studies for Directorate of Logistics and Directorate of Public Works operations. The Presidio of Monterey was excluded from these studies since cost-saving initiatives were implemented prior to the announcement of these studies.

Basically the process starts when a document called the Performance Work Statement, or PWS, is developed to identify the required services, performance standards and measures, annual workload estimated, and equipment and facilities offered. Private industry will base its bid on the PWS.

Directorate of Contracting will announce the solicitation, and the Source Selection Evaluation Board reviews all private enterprise bids and will choose one bidder to compete against the government's in-house bid.

TRADOC hired KPMG, a private enterprise consulting firm, to assist our workforce in developing the PWS and management study.

Following the PWS, the Management Study develops the government's in-house bid, called the Most Efficient Organization, or MEO. The MEO is a listing of the necessary positions and grades, and it is known only to a handful of people at the Presidio to preserve fair competition.

Eventually the government's MEO is compared with one private industry bid, and a winner is determined.

Should the government win the competition, the functional area must adjust its staffing level to the MEO. If private industry wins the competition, the installation must transition to a contractor-performed operation. In either case, there may be displacement of civilian or military employees out of their current jobs.

However, civilian employees may not necessarily become unemployed. The Civilian Personnel Office will conduct a reduction in force. Displaced employees may be placed in vacant positions; may "bump" or retreat into filled positions, or be registered into the Priority Placement Program. They may also be offered vacant positions for which they qualify with the contractor. This transition process generally takes from three to six months.

Personnel from the affected functional areas are encouraged NOT to discuss the Management Study with any persons outside their functional area. This practice minimizes private industry from obtaining information that might jeopardize the cost-review process.

The Directorate of Resource Management has established an Intranet site accessible from any installation workstation at "http://pomnet.monterey" for more information; an e-mail address at "CAStudy@pom-emhl.army.mil" for individuals to submit questions or comments; and a telephone line, 242-6677, for individuals to leave messages, briefly stating their questions.

Individuals may also submit comments or suggestions in writing via installation distribution to ATZP-RM, Attn: Commercial Activities, or via mail to:

RM, Attn: Commercial Activities
1759 Lewis Road, Suite 122,
Monterey, CA 93940.

Employees are encouraged to first address their concerns and questions to their supervisors.

In addition, the Community News will publish future articles to keep civilian employees informed on the progress of the studies.

Weather may require more attention to yard care

Hello all,

We have been having quite a rainy season this year, and with the advent of sunshine and nice weather, the grass and vegetation will be growing vigorously requiring all of us to be more conscious of our yard care. In truth, the great majority of our community does a really wonderful job of caring for the property that has been let to them for the time that they are assigned here. Some do need reminders; if you are one of them, please don't take this as an admonishment but rather as a gentle reminder. Know that all of our talents lie in different things and for some of us, well, I understand there are those with 'black thumbs'! That aside, it's incumbent upon us to do the very best we can do in keeping the outside of our government quarters squared away.

To help you in that endeavor, we have a self-help garden center where you can check out lawn equipment and other things. We would ask you to please return the equipment on time, as there are a lot of residents vying for the same equipment, and when you don't return it, they are not able to use it. Procrastination is not a valid excuse for late returns. Let's all cooperate and make our community a more beautiful place to live! Happy gardening! Thanks for listening!

Former AFAP representative describes event experience

By Kathleen McClary

Hi! I was the 1999 representative to the Department of the Army level Army Family Action Plan Symposium, held in Washington D.C. During my week at the symposium, I was fortunate to meet many active duty, retired, Reserve and National Guard soldiers, spouses and Department of Defense civilians.

All of them came to participate and be a part of the process by which YOUR input can change the way the army and other services function. In the past 16 years, more than 400 issues raised and worked on by Army staff and Congress, have resulted in 58 pieces of legislation, 125 new or revised policies, and 122 programs established or revised. I also had the pleasure to meet Gen. Eric Shinseki, Chief of Staff Army; General Keane, Vice Chief of Staff Army, and many other dignitaries from all parts of the Army family.

I was part of the Installation and Finance workgroup. We worked issues including pay problems, services on post such as Army Family Action Plan and Army Family Team Building, burial benefits, and Army and Air Force Exchange Service issues.

We were asked to prioritize 17 issues to come up with the top three, revise, rewrite and present these three to a review committee, and then brief them to the Vice Chief of Staff Army and other members of the General Officer's Steering Committee. This committee takes the issues to the higher levels, pursues and tracks their progress. This experience really changed my perspective on military life and how anyone can make a difference, so everyone, come out and support the 2000 Army Family Action Plan Symposium on March 29 and 30. YOU can make a difference.

(Editor's Note: The symposium is a two-day forum open to all members of the Monterey military community, including service members, family members, retirees and Department of Defense civilians.

Past and current AFAP issues, recommendations, status and resolutions are posted under the Army Family Action Plan on the Army Morale, Welfare and recreation site at www.armymwr.com.

Individuals may also submit their written input on quality of life issues. To submit concerns or ideas, write down the Issue, Scope, Recommendations, Definition of success, and Cost benefit for your concerns. You may also include your name, address and phone number to have Army Community Service contact you about the resolution of the issue you raised. Then deliver your inputs to Army Community Service, at the Stilwell Community Center, Building 4260.

For more information, to volunteer, or to register as a delegate, call Army Community Service at 242-7660.)

Parents can help discourage gang membership

The Presidio of Monterey Police Department offers the following information on gang awareness and discouraging your children from joining gangs.

Discourage your children from hanging around with gang members. Meet your children's friends. Find out who they are, what influence they have over your children, and how they and your children spend their free time. If your children choose friends that are mostly from gangs, then your children are also probably involved or will become involved.

Occupy your children's free time. Give them responsibilities at home. Get them involved in after-school sports, city recreation or religious activities.

Develop good communication with your children. Good communication is open, frequent and takes on a positive tone. It allows your children to come to you to discuss any topic or problem. It does not condemn or put down. Good communication allows you to tell your children that you love them.

Spend time with your children. Plan activities that the whole family can enjoy. Spend time alone with your children. Expose them to different places outside of your neighborhood. Take them to parks, museums, the beach, the mountains, camping trips, etc. Give them attention.

Do not buy or allow your children to dress in gang-style clothing. If your children dress in gang-style clothing they are expressing an interest in gangs and will attract the attention of gangs.

Set limits for your children. Children need to know at an early age what is acceptable and unacceptable behavior.

Do not allow your children to stay out late and spend a lot of unsupervised time out in the streets.

Do not allow your children to write or practice writing gang names, symbols or graffiti on their books, clothes, bodies, walls or any other place. Teach respect for other's property.

Develop an anti-gang environment in your home. Clearly and continually begin to express to your children at an early age your disapproval of gang activity and of any family members joining a gang.

Learn about gangs and drug activity in your community. Learn how gang members dress and speak, as well as their behavior and activities. Attend informational meetings and read articles related to gang activity. Become an informed parent.

Participate in the education of your children. Take an interest in your children's education. Visit your children's school, meet their teachers and attend parent/teacher meetings. Help your children with their school work. Set high standards for your children.

Participate in the community. Know your neighbors. Organize or join Neighborhood Watch groups. Discourage gangs from hanging around your neighborhood. Remove graffiti from around your home. Attend community functions. Teach your children civic pride.

Be a good example. Become an active, not passive parent. For more information, contact Presidio of Monterey Police Department Crime Prevention Officer Preston Proctor at 242-7868.

Army changes SFC Retention Control Point to 24 years

The Retention Control Point for sergeants first class is changing from 22 years active federal service to 24 years, effective March 1.

The RCP for those staff sergeants serving in extremely critical military occupational specialties has been changed from 20 years to 22 years active federal service. Critical skills eligible for the new staff sergeant RCP will be updated semi-annually in accordance with the Army's needs, officials said. The effective date for the revision of the staff sergeant RCP is also March 1.

Currently, the MOSs which fall under this extended RCP for staff sergeants are 00B, diver; 13F, fire support specialist; 13P, multiple launch rocket system operation/fire direction specialist; 14R, Bradley linebacker crewmember; 35Y, integrated family of test equipment operator and maintainer; 55D, explosive ordnance disposal specialist; 81T, topographic analyst; 82D, topographic surveyor; 96B, intelligence analyst; 96H imagery ground station operator; and 97B, counter-intelligence agent.

Staff sergeants approaching their RCP should stay in contact with their unit retention office to keep current with the critical skills that apply under this program, officials said.

Soldiers affected by the RCP change who already have an approved retirement and who want their retirement withdrawn must submit a DA Form 4187 through their chain of command to PERSCOM, Attn: TAPC-PDT-S.

Retirement applications may not be withdrawn after travel for retirement has been performed, officials said. They said this includes movement of household goods, privately owned vehicles, the soldier or family members.

This change is not retroactive based on the effective date of March 1, officials said. They said the change to the sergeant first class RCP does not affect the zones of consideration for the calendar year 00 master sergeant selection board that convened Feb. 3.

Changes will be incorporated in the next revision of the regulation. (Courtesy of Army News Service)

Political activities

Staff Judge Advocate office provides refresher do's, don'ts during Election Year 2000-2001

As a matter of long-standing policy and in accordance with the Joint Ethics Regulation, the Department of Defense does not engage in political activities that could be interpreted as associating the department with any partisan political causes, issues or candidates.

The following information is not all-inclusive, but it is merely a quick "refresher" on the "do's and don'ts" for political activities for Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center and Presidio of Monterey personnel.

DO's

❑ DOD employees and their family members are encouraged to vote. Voting assistance officers are appointed at every level of command to assist service members and families in obtaining absentee ballots and voting information. The Federal Voting Assistance Program's web site has been established to further assist and can be found at www.fvap.gov.

❑ Command/internal information newspapers may support the Federal Voting Assistance program by carrying factual information about registration and voting laws, especially information on absentee voting requirements of the various states and territories.

❑ Candidates for local or state offices may be given the same access to our installation, as any other visitor. While on our military installation, however, all political activities and media events are prohibited.

If the candidate has been invited to a military installation as part of an official installation activity which includes media coverage of that activity, the candidate may be allowed to appear on camera and in photos. However, candidates are not allowed to make statements or respond to queries while participating in that activity or while on the installation.

Members of Congress, whether or not candidates for reelection to national office, may visit military installations to receive briefings or tours. If the candidate is currently a government official and his or her duties require a visit to an installation for related official duties, the response to the request for the visit will include a reminder that the candidate may not use the visit as a campaign vehicle. Other candidates for national office who are not current members of Congress or serving governmental officials may be given the same access to installations as any other unofficial visitor.

DON'Ts

❑ Use of installation facilities by any candidate, members of their staffs, or their campaign representatives for political assemblies or meetings, media events (including speeches), fund-raising social events for political candidates, parties or causes, press conferences and any other activity that could be construed as political in nature is prohibited. Commanders may not allow installation facilities to be used for polling or voting sites.

❑ Requests from politicians to tape or film campaign commercials in front of military equipment (ships, tanks, aircraft, etc.) on military property owned or leased by the government should be denied.

❑ Speeches, articles and public comments by military personnel in their official capacity must not contain material that may be construed as political in nature (DoDD 5410.18 and DoDI 5410.19). As a general rule, military personnel are prohibited under the UCMJ from making contemptuous remarks in public about the President, Vice President, etc. (see Article 88, UCMJ and AR 600-20). Speeches and articles for publication by military personnel must be reviewed and approved by the Public Affairs Office.

❑ DOD newspapers may not carry campaign news, partisan discussions, cartoons, editorials or commentaries dealing with political campaigns, candidates or issues. Likewise, polls, surveys, or straw votes relating to a political campaign or partisan political issue are prohibited. Also, service members are prohibited from distributing campaign materials on post.

For more information, contact the Administrative Law Branch, Office of the Staff Judge Advocate, 242-5082.

SJA office provides tax tips for military

The following are a portion of the tax tips provided by the Staff Judge Advocate's office, created for military personnel.

The series of tax tips will continue through much of the tax preparation season.

TAX TIP: How much money earned overseas from U.S. Government sources is excludable as Foreign Earned Income? None. Foreign Earned Income is income you earn while overseas, which is not earned from the U.S. Government.

TAX TIP: How can I get forms and publications? Forms and publications are available on the Internet at www.irs.ustreas.gov/. You can also call the IRS toll-free order number 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676). You can also get them by visiting your installation Tax Center.

TAX TIP: Is money I earn as a child care provider in an overseas area excludable as Foreign Earned Income? Yes. If you meet the residency or physical presence test requirements, you can exclude the money you have earned from your income.

TAX TIP: Is money I earn while teaching a course overseas excludable as Foreign Earned Income? Usually, yes. You are probably an independent contractor and not an employee of the U.S. Government. Therefore, if you meet the residency test or physical presence test requirements, you can exclude the money you have earned from your income.

TAX TIP: What are the rules for claiming the child tax credit? Taxpayers can claim a child tax credit of $500 for each "qualifying child" under the age of 17. The amount of the child tax credit is subject to limitations based upon the taxpayer's modified adjusted gross income. For most taxpayers, the credit is nonrefundable and subject to other limitations based upon tax liabilities. However, special rules apply for families with three or more qualifying children. Families with three or more qualifying children may be able to take the credit as a refundable amount.

TAX TIP: I sold a house last year. Do I have to pay taxes on the gain? It depends. If you lived in it for two of the previous five years, you do not have to pay any gain on the sale – provided the gain was under $250,000, if single, or $500,000, if married filing jointly. If you sold your home prior to May 7, 1997, you do not have to pay any taxes on the sale, provided the home was your principal residence and you purchase a replacement home of equal or greater value during the replacement period.

For more information on federal income tax filing, contact your unit tax representative.

ACCP enrollments limited

The Army Institute for Professional Development postal budget has been severely cut. As a result, each individual is limited to one active Army Correspondence Course Program enrollment. AIPD has suspended all enrollments of students enrolled in more than one course. You may contact AIPD to choose one enrollment to be activated.

While a course enrollment is suspended, the system will grade examinations for all previously shipped subcourses and issue completion certificates as appropriate.

It will not issue additional subcourse materials. If this cut back in service effects your career either for retirement or promotion points, students need to express concerns through their chain of command. The AIPD web site is www.atsc.army.mil/accp/aipd.htm

MPC spring term classes

The Monterey Peninsula College second spring cycle, March 27-June 1, will offer nine "living room" courses which will have their initial meeting during the last week of March. The deadline to apply for Tuition Assistance, which will pay 75 percent of the enrollment fees, is April 7. Contact the Education Center for application, registration and tuition assistance forms.

Spring term begins at Chapman

The next term for the Monterey extension for Chapman University will run Monday to May 13. The Chapman program in Monterey has long specialized in teacher certification and other courses related to the education career field. With tuition assistance, undergraduate courses will cost $162.50 and graduate class costs will be $237.50 out of pocket. Explanation of classified ad policy

The following information is provided to explain and clarify policy for individuals who would like to publish classified ads in POM-Mart.

Military members, retirees and Department of Defense civilian employees with valid identification cards are authorized to place classified ads in the Community News.

To place an ad in the Community News, complete the form on the back page of the Community News and deliver it to the Public Affairs Office, Building 614, Room 142, Presidio of Monterey, 93944. Ads may also be sent via e-mail to the editor at wright@pom-emhl.army.mil. Individuals should be sure to include all information requested on the form, including the category of the ad.

Daytime work telephone numbers are for use by Community News staff only; they will not be listed in ads. Individuals may place up to three ads per household in different categories per issue. Each ad should not exceed 35 words; itemized property for sale should be valued at least $10.

The Community News staff will make every effort to publish ads accurately, but we reserve the right to edit ads to meet readability, format and space requirements. Report typographical errors to the editor, and they will be corrected in the next available issue.

Acceptable classified ads include items in the categories of Autos; Motorcycles; Trucks, Vans, Sport, RVs; Wanted; Sports Equipment; Entertainment, Music Items; Computers and Accessories; Lost and Found; Miscellaneous; Pets or Household Items. Items must be for one-time sale or for free – not for a profit-sharing venture of multiple items. The Community News does not take responsibility for items advertised.

Classified ads for businesses, rentals, free information, help for hire or tutoring, or illegal items are not authorized. Each ad will be published in three consecutive issues unless it is renewed or cancelled.

The date the ad was first published or renewed is printed in parentheses following each ad. For example, ads dated (03-10) will continue to run through the April 7 issue. Classified ads may be renewed or cancelled by phone; however, new ads, additions or major changes to ads must be done in writing before the Wednesday deadline for the next issue. Deadlines are generally a week and a half prior to the next publication. When calling in reference to an ad, be sure to identify the category, first few words of the ad, phone number as printed and the date following the ad.

Deadline for the March 24 issue is Wednesday;
deadline for the April 7 issue is March 29.

Refer questions concerning this policy to the editor of the Community News at the Public Affairs Office, at 242-5104 or 242-6426.
